When the Text to Speech functionality is turned on, users can listen to the content of an HTML article.

If you want your users to make use of the text to speech option on the ProQuest platform, you will need to access to your ProQuest Administrative Module (PAM) admin.proquest.com

In the Administrative Module, select the Usage Interface section, then Searching, Display, Citations and Email tab. Down the page tick the box for Include a "Listen" text-to-speech option for document full text as per the screenshot below:
If you do not know your access details for your ProQuest Administrative Module, please contact support@proquest.com specifying your NHS trust name.
